EJIOGBE INSTITUTE

Traditional Knowledge. Spiritual Practice. Education. Cultural Preservation.

ABOUT THE INSTITUTE

Discover Ejiogbe Institute

Ejiogbe Institute is a multidisciplinary organization dedicated to traditional African and Afro-diasporic spiritual practices, personal development, education, and the preservation of cultural knowledge.

Founded by Monroe Rodriguez, the Institute brings together traditional divination systems, spiritual consultation, ritual practices, holistic wellness, and contemporary educational resources.

Our work serves individuals seeking personal guidance, experienced spiritual practitioners expanding their knowledge, and organizations interested in cultural education and specialized expertise.

Our Areas of Practice

Traditional Divination & Spiritual Consultation

Individual consultations drawing upon traditional divination systems, ancestral practices, and spiritual methodologies to address personal circumstances, relationships, professional concerns, and life decisions.

Traditional African & Diasporic Practices

Specialized knowledge and services involving Ifá, Fa/Afa, Vodun, Haitian Vodou, Palo Mayombe, Candomblé, Umbanda, Quimbanda, Jurema, and related traditions.

Ritual Work & Spiritual Services

Personalized spiritual services, including cleansing, protection, ancestral work, and other traditional practices informed by the client's circumstances and the appropriate spiritual system.

Holistic Wellness & Personal Development

Integrative approaches incorporating Reiki, meditation, spiritual coaching, astrology, Human Design, and other methods of personal exploration and development.

Education, Research & Cultural Preservation

Educational resources, traditional teachings, publications, and digital initiatives supporting the documentation, transmission, and study of African. and Afro-diasporic knowledge.

Who We Serve

Individuals seeking spiritual guidance and personal development; established practitioners and students of traditional spiritual systems; wellness professionals; researchers, educators, cultural organizations, and creative professionals seeking specialized knowledge.

LEADERSHIP & EXPERTISE

Meet the Founder

Monroe Rodriguez

Founder | Traditional Spiritual Practitioner | Educator | Technology Professional | Author | Musician

Monroe Rodriguez is a multidisciplinary practitioner, educator, and technology professional whose work connects traditional spiritual systems, cultural scholarship, holistic practices, and modern technology.

His experience spans more than two decades of spiritual study, professional consultation, and engagement with African, Caribbean, and Latin American traditions.

His training and initiatory experience encompass multiple systems, including Isese Ifá, Fa/Afa Vodun, Haitian Vodou, Palo Mayombe, Candomblé, Umbanda, Quimbanda, and Jurema.

Alongside traditional spiritual practices, his background includes studies in molecular biology, information systems, and marketing, as well as extensive professional experience in software development and technology architecture.

This combination of experience informs the Institute's approach to consultation, education, research, and the development of contemporary cultural resources.

Beyond Consultation: Knowledge & Technology

Ejiogbe Institute's work extends beyond individual spiritual services into cultural documentation, educational technology, and the preservation of traditional knowledge.

Through initiatives such as Ejiogbe Voices, the Institute explores new ways to document languages, oral traditions, cultural histories, and educational resources, making valuable knowledge more accessible to future generations.

The Institute also develops written and digital resources for those seeking deeper engagement with traditional spiritual systems.
