

Introducing GUTTS: Your Solution for Entry-Level Skilled Plumbing Candidates

Are you searching for qualified and skilled entry-level candidates in the Plumbing trade? If so, then look no further than GUTTS (Ground Up Trade and Talent Solutions), a cutting edge trade school based in Fairfax, Virginia. Our comprehensive pre-apprentice training program equips job seekers with the necessary skills to be job ready in their field and an asset to the company that hires them. GUTTS wants to work with employers who value time understand soft costs , hard costs and cost savings. Realize they need to build a team to build a culture. To build that team they need access to a consistent stream of talented individuals.

Why Choose GUTTS?

At GUTTS, we understand the importance of providing job seekers with the qualifications employers require in today's competitive environment. Our concentrated course equips future employees with the plumbing skills needed to start making money for your company within weeks not months after starting. With a focus on both online and on-ground training, our program offers a condensed blend of theory and practical experience. They also are equipped with the hand tools necessary for an apprentice to start working.

The GUTTS Training Process

Our pre-apprentice plumbing students benefit from a hybrid online and in lab program. The online portion of the program is provided by the PHCC (Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors) national association. To complement this, our lab program, developed by a master plumber, is offered at our training facility in Fairfax. By providing trained candidates, we ensure a skilled pipeline of apprentices for years to come.

The GUTTS Job Placement Process

Finding skilled workers can be a costly and time-consuming process. That's why GUTTS developed a specialized job placement service for employers seeking entry-level pre-apprentice plumbing candidates. Our job placement services are tailored to help you find the ideal talent that aligns with your company's growth objectives. As well as candidates' location, transportation, communications skills and most importantly aptitude and attitude.

With firsthand knowledge of each candidate's dedication to show up, willingness to learn, aptitude for absorbing information, and entry-level skills, we can provide you with vetted candidates ready to contribute to your team. Our candidates are actively seeking employment opportunities that offer apprenticeships and long-term career prospects.
