

PALMER & BARR

VICTORIYA STOLYAR SCORES DEFENSE VERDICT IN PHILADELPHIA

In a Philadelphia County motor vehicle accident case in which liability was undisputed and where Plaintiff received the benefit of full tort status, Victoriya Stolyar swiftly secured a defense verdict. Plaintiff claimed injuries to his head, neck, back, left shoulder and left wrist. Plaintiff underwent months of physical therapy and chiropractic treatment including trigger point injections and percutaneous electrical treatment. Plaintiff returned for additional medical evaluations for his ongoing complaints. Before the jury, Plaintiff further asserted that his injuries affected his activities of daily living as well as exercising and working which he had no choice but to overcome. Ms. Stolyar argued to the jury that the nature of the accident could not have caused the Plaintiff's claimed injuries. She also offered evidence of gaps in the Plaintiff's care which did not align with the extent of ongoing physical pain asserted by the Plaintiff. After a short deliberation, the jury found that the Defendant's negligence was not the factual cause of the Plaintiff's alleged injuries and issued a verdict in favor of the Defendant.

