

The New York Times

NY Times Real Estate section 2004; 'Southampton seems to have older American blue chip wealth, Easthampton has more Hollywood.' 'South of the highway is where the Upper East Side lives, and Sag Harbor is like Greenwich Village...'

Harrison pointed out that Sag Harbor has 300+ boat slips and moorings under sunsets, and in the winter there were still 25 places to get something to eat, whereas they were rolling up sidewalks in other hamlets.
