

Present your science and technology to leading clinicians, companies, investors and innovators who are working together on the next generation of amputation prevention solutions.

Your scientific presentations are made as part of platform sessions to attendees that include general practitioners, wound care and vascular specialists, surgeons, podiatrists, nurses, residents and fellows, PhDs, students, industry scientists, R&D, business development, and early-stage investors.

All sponsors are recognized on the conference platform and name/logo are printed on all event materials and displays.
